

Rocket Tube Contract to Local Firm

Horkey-Moore Assoc., division of Houston Fearless Corp., received a contract for rocket tube assembly containers from the U. S. Army Chemical Procurement District, New York, Edward J. Horkey, president, announced today. The dollar value of the contract was not disclosed.

Awarded after evaluation of proposals from other major firms, the contract calls for design study, development, and manufacture of rocket tubes. John Kerr, vice-president, engineering, described the contract as "a broad program utilizing the integrated Horkey-Moore facilities and divisions — engineering, testing, plastics, and manufacturing."

Of advanced design, the rocket tubes will be manufactured of reinforced plastics at Horkey-Moore Assoc.'s Plastics Division. Directed by Vincent Gurdy, the Division has overall responsibility for the program.

Nixon to Make Major Foreign Policy Speech at World Forum

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will make a major foreign policy speech in Los Angeles, Oct. 14, before the first annual World Newspaper Forum, sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Assn. as a kick off to National Newspaper Week, Oct. 15-22.

Forum Chairman Bert Stolpe, publisher of the Azusa Herald and Glendora Press, and V. John Krehbiel, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, jointly announced the Vice President's appearance at the concluding session of the behind-the-scenes event, featuring the theme, "The World — Today — Tomorrow."

The Republican standard bearer heads a bevy of national and international authorities in the fields of communications, government, finance, industry, education and science who will address the two-day forum, Oct. 13 and 14, at the Beverly-Hilton Hotel in nearby Beverly Hills.

DEMOCRATIC Presidential nominee, Senator John F. Kennedy (Mass.) also has been invited to deliver a major address to the estimated 1000 publishers, editors and civic leaders from throughout the world.

Forum Chairman Stolpe, past president of the National Newspaper Promotion Assn., stated the purpose of the World Newspaper Forum is:

To provide an annual sounding board for opinions, observations, ideas of basic importance to the peoples of the world during National Newspaper Week;

TO POINT UP actions to watch for in the year ahead and the immediate future;

To provide information for deliberation and thought that will be of help to the general citizenry;

To provide a common platform of expression for men of good will throughout the world;

TO DEMONSTRATE to the world that free expression and a free press are synonymous.

"It is significant and fitting that the first World Newspaper Forum should originate in California because the founding father of National Newspaper Week 21 years ago was our own John B. Long, veteran general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.," Stolpe said.

Not since the founding of the United Nations in San Francisco has such a vast array of key speakers been assembled to appear together on the West Coast to discuss every major topic of world concern he pointed out.

PRESIDING over the forum will be CNPA Vice President William Bramwell, Chico Enterprise-Record publisher, who currently is on a three-week National Editorial Assn. study mission to eight western and eastern European capitals, including Moscow, Warsaw, The Hague, and East Berlin.

Dr. Arthur Coons, president of Occidental College, Los Angeles, will moderate the symposium on education. Panelists will be Arthur S. Fleming, U. S. Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare; Dr. David Henry, president, University of Illinois; and Dr. Lee Dubridge, president, California Institute of Technology.

ADAM L. GIMBEL, president, Saks Fifth Avenue, New York City, will hit grass-root level in a discussion of "Consumer Needs and Trends," which is expected to attract newspaper and agency advertising executives from throughout the world.

Dr. William Pickering, famed director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Edward Teller, prize-winning physicist of University of California at Berkeley, will lead the science panel.

ERIC JOHNSTON, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, Washington, D. C., will depict the motion picture as a communications medium. Ole Caving, publisher of Politiken House and Ekstra Bladet, Copenhagen, Denmark, will be featured on the newspaper publishing section.

The news communications section will include Daniel De Luce, general executive of the Associated Press; Stewart Hensley, chief U. S. State Department correspondent for United Press International and Dr. Frank Stanton, president, Columbia Broadcasting System.

LABOR WILL BE represented by George Meany, president of American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization. Former Secretary of Navy Charles Thomas, who recently resigned as president of Trans-World Airlines to become president of Irvine Ranch Co., will discuss the world transportation problems.

Henry J. Kaiser, president of Kaiser Industries, Inc., will discuss the challenge and opportunities facing industry in the free world. The oil-power section will feature R. L. Minckler, president of the World Affairs Council and recently retired as president of General Petroleum Co., now Socony Mobil Oil Co.

California Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown will welcome the speakers, publishers, editors, and civic leaders to the conclave. Other governmental officials will also speak briefly.

AS A FEATURED highlight of the forum, the first annual International Editorial Cartoonist Competition is attracting scores of sketches depicting "World Affairs—The World Today—Tomorrow" from many of the world's top artists. The $1000 Grand International Prize Winner will be chosen from the winners of seven regions of the Free World—United States, Canada, Latin America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia.

Reservations for the World Newspaper Forum may be obtained by contacting the Herald or by writing to the forum, California Newspaper Publishers Assn., 610 S. Main St., Los Angeles 14.
